

My name is Kelly D'Alessandro, or Mrs. D as the students affectionately call me. I am the STEM and Media Services Teacher here at ASCA. I have been teaching in the Albany Catholic diocese since September of 2001 and at ASCA since September of 2009. I am an alumnus of The College of Saint Rose. I am very blessed to have the ability to teach your children here at All Saints!

I have been married since 1993 and have 2 adult daughters, Katie and Gabrielle. Katie lives in NYC and is an operations manager for a recruiting firm in Manhattan. She was married in May of 2021, to a Catholic school teacher no less! Gabrielle received her masters in education in May of 2021 and is teaching at ASCA! She is the 3rd generation of D'Alessandro women to be a teacher. She has worked and volunteered here at ASCA in the past.

Outside of education, animals and animal rescue is a passion of mine. I am the proud mommy to 5 cats currently and many other furbabies up in Heaven. I have also been a volunteer with rescues since 2012 and am the current intake coordinator and a board of directors member for a local nonprofit all volunteer run cat rescue.
