Scholastic

Regardless of your virtual learning plans, preparing instructional content for weeks away from school can be daunting. To support you, we've created the Scholastic Learn at Home website. This free resource provides all students with 20* days' worth of learning journeys that span the content areas so you can keep your students academically active while your buildings are closed. The site supports students with approximately three hours of learning opportunities per day, including projects, articles and stories, virtual field trips, reading and geography challenges, and more. These daily learning opportunities were carefully curated by our editors to reduce the burden on teachers and families needing to create meaningful learning experiences. The Scholastic Learn at Home website requires no password and is open freely to all, on any device. They are designed to limit the need for printing and allow students to learn independently or with their families.

We welcome you to share this free resource with your communities by including in your virtual education plans or including the link on your school and/or district websites. The site will be updated weekly until all 20 days of content is available.

AUDIBLE - listen for free

With all of us experiencing varying degrees of social distancing and school closures, we have created something that we hope makes our customers' lives a little easier. At stories.audible.com, you will find hundreds of our titles available completely free. The collection has been handpicked by our editors and is a mix of stories to entertain, engage, and inform young people, ages 0–18. These stories offer a screen-free option that we hope may help break up the day for families with students home from school. To access the free titles, just visit stories.audible.com from any web browser. The experience is completely free – no log-ins, credit cards, or passwords required. Just click, stream and listen. We wish you and your loved ones good health, and we hope that listening to a good story will offer some respite during these unsettling times. All of us at Audible
